

changed—all these too came flitting across my mind ; and then presently through the unsubstantial pageant, solid and strange, the walls of Famagusta asserted themselves, and the abandoned towers built by Venice and Genoa.

